Negro Shot at a Ball.

DANVILLE, VA., October 3.—(Special.)—
Robert Lee (colored) was perhaps fatally shot at a negro ball in Dundee, a suburb of Danville, to-night. Early in the evening some one slapped the jaws of one of the women, and in the confusion following another individual yelled to put out the lights, which was done. In the darkness a number of shots were fired, one of which struck Lee in the jaw, lodging in the neck. Three negroes, who were at the dance, and who skipped "after the ball." are wanted by the police, charged with the shooting of Lee.

WELL-KNOWN MERCHANT PASSES AWAY RATHER SUDDENLY.

HAD BEEN IN ILL-HEALTH FOR YEARS.

Bade His Family Farewell and Breathed His Last Peacefully-

Sketch of His Useful Career-Architect of His Own Fortune.

Mr. Edmund Archer Saunders, one of Richmond's most prominent and progressive business-men, died suddenly Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at his elegant home, No. 827 west Franklin street.

Mr. Saunders had been in ill health for about three years and during that time he had gradually wasted away; still, his physicians did not anticipate dissolution at so early a date, and the end came as a great shock to his family and to the community. Deceased had travelled among the various resorts in Virginia throughout the entire summer seeking strength, and he only returned last Friday from the Alleghany Hotel, at Goshen. Sunday he appeared much brighter than usual and in the morning ate a hearty breakfast and spent some time in cheerful communion with his loved ones.

Shortly before noon, however, he was stricken with what very much resembled congestive chill, and his family, some of whom were at church, were hastily sur moned to his bedside. He lingered, entirely conscious, until five minutes pefore 3 o'clock, when, fully realizing his condition, he bade his family, all of whom were assembled around his bedside, farewell, and quietly and peacefully breathe

PUBLIC SPIRITED CITIZEN. Though 67 years of age, Mr. Saunders was an exceedingly active man until his last illness. He applied himself closely to his business, and even after his health failed he visited his place of business and attempted to perform the duties to which he had been accustomed for many years. In fact, his illness is thought to ve been largely due to the constant at tention which he gave his various busi ness interests. Deceased was one of the most public spirited citizens in Rich-mond, and while there was no ostentation about his acts, he never refused aid to a commendable cause, and he frequently assisted struggling young men in their efforts to hew their way through the maze of obtacles which present themselves on the outset of life's journey. Being essentially a self-made man himself, Mr. Saunders appreciated to the full-est extent the efforts of those who were trying to reach the pinnacle of success. He started in business in this city with little capital save the pluck and energy and excellent judgment which charac-terized him through life, and gradually carved for himself a place of prominence in the business world, and at the same time amassed a considerable fortune. Not only did he succeed financially, but he also made for himself a name which will be handed down to posterity as a synonym for honesty and straightforward. legitimate methods in business dealings.

HIS CAREER. Mr. Saunders was a native of James City county, where he was born in 1831. well-known planter of that county, and it was on his father's farm that the deceased spent his earlier days. He left the farm, however, when the civil war broke out, and enlisted in the commissary dewhich she was a devoted member, and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. I. S. Beyles, assisted by the Rev. J. N. Latham, of the Methodist church.

At a meeting of the Beyles, as meeting of the Rev. J. M. At a meeting of At a meeting of the Bruton District (York county) School Board, held here, it was decided to open the schools in the district next Monday morning, contracts were made with the Williamsburg School Board to enter scholars during the session, and with a well known builder.

drew from the concern, and for a time Mr. Saunders conducted the business in day Mr. Boyles baptised a large number at Smyrna church, in James City. Mr. Boyles returned home last evening and occupied his pulpit, preaching an able occupied his pulpit, preaching an able with the pulpit of the series of t name was then changed to E. A. Saun ders & Sons, and as such is now known as one of the largest wholesale grocery liquor, and tobacco houses in the South. OTHER BUSINESS INTERESTS.

Though he devoted much of his time to this establishment, Mr. Saunders, who prospered even beyond his own expecta-tions, did not confine himself to this business alone. His progressive ideas led him to invest in other enterprises, and he was always ready and willing to lend finan-cial aid to anything which looked to the upbuilding of Richmond.

For quite awhile he was associated with
Mr. Walker, his former partner, in a large milling business. Most of their out-put was exported to South America, and large quantities of coffee were imported in return. He was also a member of the tobacco manufacturing concern of Hard-grove, Pollard & Co. This was a wellgrove, Pollard & Co. This was a well-known concern, but has since retired from business. Mr. Saunders was also a mem-ber of the firm of E. A. Saunders & Co., of New York, representing the Cord-Wood and Lumber Association of Vir-ginia, which at one time controlled the

New York and Brooklyn market. He was also prominently identified with the establishment of the Mammoth Chemical-Works, below the city, now controlled by the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, having been associated in this enterprise with Messrs. Isaac Davenport also held the presidency of the Richmond Standard Iron and Spike Company, and was one of the promoters of the Union Brokerage Company, being its first presilent, and at the date of his death a mem-

FARMING A DIVERSION. Aside from all of these interests. Mr. Saunders found much time to devote to farming. This, with him was a diversion, and he owned a number of the finest farms in Virginia and kept them in the very highest state of cultivation. Among oldings of farm property were "Bos-l," "Buckland," and "Wyanoke," all noted estates on James river, and seve ral smaller properties near Gordonsville, Orange county. He also owned con derable real estate in this city.

Deceased took at one time an active interest in municipal affairs, and held mem-bership in the Board of Aldermen, and on the Board of Police Commissioners. To these offices he lent that same excellent business judgment which assisted him so materially in making his success in the business world, and to the city he proved most valuable.

Mr. Saunders was for many years a vestryman in old St. John's church, but after his removal from Church Hill he identified himself with All-Saints Episcopal church, and he accepted a position on the vestry of that church, which is vacated only by his death.

Deceased married in early life Miss Mary Jane Ball, of New Kent, and she, with four children, survives him. The children are Messrs. E. A. Saunders, Jr.,

By some-Judge Quarles, the congressional candidate, among the number-it is thought that the State election will help Democratic chances by increasing interest in the election, apathy among the voters being said to be the greatest foe to success. Upon the other hand, it is urged that the full Republican vote is much more likely to be polled at a national election than a State election, and that, therefore, a Republican senator is much more likely to be chosen than if the election were held next fall, when mem-

THE M'GILL CATHOLIC UNION.

The Annual Meeting and Election of Officers Held Last Night. The annual meeting of the McGill Catholic Union was held at its rooms last night, and a large number of the memers were in attendance. The election of officers for the ensuing year was the principal business before the organization, and after a very harmonious balloting, the following was the result: President William E. Purcell: Vice-President. Dr. William McGowan; Recording Secretary. L. Lynch; Financial Secretary, J. C.

The annual report of the treasurer, as also that of the financial secretary, showed the union to be in a very flourishing condition, and the interest manifested by the other officers and the members gave very gratifying indications of a promising future for the organization.

An invitation to attend the bazaar to be held in Manchester soon was read before the meeting, and it was decided that the union would accept and attend the bazaar in a body on Monday evening. October 17th.

An invitation for the union to enter a J. B. O'Rielly, to be voted to the most popular Catholic society in the city, at a bazaar to be held by the Sacred Heart parish, in the near future, was also read before the meeting, and the secretary was directed to acknowledge same, expressing the willingness of the union to enter the contest, with the determination of carrying off the coveted prize.

Two Performances Will Be Given To-Day, Preceded by a Parade. There will be two performances of the great Adam Forepaugh & Sells Brothers' shows here to-day. They will be preceded by a morning parade of unprecedented magnitude and attractiveners. It is asserted that the parade alone represents a larger outlay than the total cost of other shows; that the combination owns more elephants, rare wild beasts, noble horses, and performing animals, uses bigger tents, more cars, hires more talent, presents more signal acts, spends more money, and entertains more people; that it has the greatest performers in every branch of equestrian, arenic, symnastic, aerial, and comic art; spiender of pageantry, costumes, and paraphernalia without parallel; the most elegant, thrib-ing, and decorous of performances; the finest hippodrome; lady clowns, lady ring-masters; the most elephants, and two big

James Robertson, a colored man from Louisa county, was thrown from his wagon at Seventh and Main streets yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock and quite badly burt.

He was accompanied by his two daughters, who were also thrown out, still further accompanying the old man, but were not burt.

Robertson received an ugly gash in his right temple.

The ambulance was called, and responded, with Dr. Gwathmey in charge. Robertson was treated by the surgeon and sent on his way.
